

Critical Book Review AssignmentProf. Felice

In an essay of about 8 pages (or 2000 words)--no more--write a critical review of one of the following books. Consider and assess the argument of the author in light of the ethical issues raised by the course. Discuss the specific strengths and weaknesses of the book, and present an argument of your own which relates it specifically to your course readings. If you choose a novel (marked by *), the task is similar, if perhaps more subtle: what moral dilemmas are raised by the book? Does the author seem to take sides among the characters? How are problems like responsibility, political loyalty, and the gap between intentions and results illustrated and resolved--if indeed they are resolved? As ethical argument--as well as creative art--how compelling do you find the book?

Essays are due without fail on May 1.
